Course Description:

This course examines western philosophy in the ancient world. Philosophers to be studied include the pre-Socratics, Socrates, Plato and Aristotle. This course will consider their views in metaphysics, theory of knowledge, moral philosophy and logic.

Required Text:

Philosophic Classics Volume 1: Ancient Philosophy, 6th edition, ed., F. E. Baird (Prentice Hall)

Course Evaluation:

The final grade will be determined by one test, and two assignments. Policy on missed tests and late assignments: zero will be the assigned grade unless a university approved justification is provided. The assignments can be submitted in class or into a drop-box located in the Department of Philosophy (12th floor Social Sciences Building) by 4:00 PM on the due date. Policy on late assignments: zero will be the assigned grade unless the lateness is university approved. Assignments will not be accepted via email under any circumstances. There is no Registrar-scheduled final exam for this course.

Intellectual Honesty:

Cheating or plagiarism on any assignment or examination is regarded as an extremely serious academic offence, the penalty for which may be an F on the assignment and possibly also an F in the course, academic probation, or requirement to withdraw. The University Calendar states that plagiarism exists when: the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test; parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author; the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source; and/or a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved. Intellectual honesty requires that references be explicitly and clearly noted. Plagiarism occurs not only when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, but also when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. A bibliography is insufficient to establish which portions of the student's work are taken from external sources; footnotes or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence.

Academic Accommodation:

Students with documented disabilities who require academic accommodations must register with the University's Disability Resources Centre and communicate their needs to the instructor as soon as possible and no later than 14 days after the start of this course.
