Hybrid Format – Zoom lectures/D2L message boards

Zoom Lectures: Wednesdays 1:00-2:15pm

Instructor: Dr. Shelley Smith

Office Hours: N/A

Communication with the instructor will be primarily by email. Telephone or video communication by arrangement/appointment.

The University of Calgary resides upon the traditional territories of the people of the Treaty 7 region in Southern Alberta, which includes the Blackfoot Confederacy (comprising the Siksika, Piikani, and Kainai First Nations), the Tsuut’ina First Nation, and the Stoney Nakoda (including the Chiniki, Bearspaw, and Wesley First Nations). The City of Calgary is also home to Métis Nation of Alberta, Region III. The University of Calgary is situated on land adjacent to where the Bow River meets the Elbow River, and that the traditional Blackfoot name of this place is “Moh’kins’tsis”, which we now call the City of Calgary.

ii’ taa’poh’to’p, the Blackfoot name of the University of Calgary’s Indigenous Strategy, was bestowed and transferred in ceremony by Kainai Elder, Andy Black Water on June 21, 2017. The name signifies a place to rejuvenate and re-energize while on a journey. Traditionally, these places are recognized as safe, caring, restful - and offer renewed energy for an impending journey. In a traditional naming ceremony, transitioning into the new name is a journey of transformation towards self-actualization.

Course Description
This course introduces students to the field of women’s studies, and provides a helpful overview of relevant issues and concerns. We will explore the historical and political origins of women’s studies, contemporary issues of social justice and misogyny, and how the field of women’s studies connects with academic and activist work. Though there is strong emphasis on issues of gender and sexuality, we will also study issues such as race and disability.

Prerequisites: None.

Course Learning Outcomes
- To understand key principles and practices behind feminist and gender theory and activism;
- To understand major paradigms in gender and sexuality studies, and their political praxis;
- To appreciate the valuable insights that a gender lens brings to everyday issues;
- To become a more critical, self-reflective, and conscious scholar;
• To participate in a vibrant, questioning community of learning that is rooted in respect for diversity and demand for social justice.

Participatory Classroom Philosophy

Due to COVID-19, it is much more challenging to maintain a participatory classroom environment. There will be a weekly 75-minute Zoom lecture/group discussion on Wednesdays at 1:00pm, as well as required discussion board participation on D2L. Participation is a critical component in achieving the course objectives and increasing personal growth through sharing views and experiences.

No student will be placed in a situation that causes them deep discomfort, but all students are encouraged to bring their “braver space” intentions.

Required/Recommended Texts (including electronic resources)
All required readings and videos will be posted on the D2L course website.

A schedule of lectures and readings will be posted on D2L during the first week of class. Required readings, videos, and Powerpoint study guides will be posted on D2L by Sunday night prior to the scheduled weekly topics.

Course Assessment

- D2L discussion board participation will be ongoing throughout the semester and is worth 10%.
- Three (3) written assignments due Friday, May 14th, Friday, May 28th, and Friday, June 11th at 11:30pm submitted through D2L dropbox. Worth 60% (20% each).
- At home final exam (essay format), posted to D2L Thursday, June 17th, at 8:00am, due Sunday, June 20th, at 11:30pm submitted through D2L dropbox. Worth 30%.

There will not be a Registrar scheduled final exam for this course.

A passing grade on any particular component of the course is NOT essential for passing this course as a whole.

Late submissions will only be accepted with appropriate documentation and prior arrangement with the instructor. I know that we are in trying times right now, and I will work with you as circumstances require, but you must contact me prior to due dates to agree assignment extensions. However, due to the accelerated pace of this six-week course, you will not be permitted to submit assignments later than one week late for any reason. It is my experience that if you fall behind in this class, there is little chance of catching up.

The modification of dates for the at home final exam (either to receive questions earlier than June 17th (8:00am) or an extension of the due date beyond June 20th (11:30pm)) will not be permitted for any reason.

D2L discussion board participation (10%)
The success of this course depends on participation and discussion. There will be a variety of ways to participate via D2L discussion boards: posting questions regarding topics/readings/videos; posting additional materials relevant to course topics; responding to posted materials; sharing views and experiences. Your grade for this component will depend on the regularity/frequency of your participation and degree of discussion and insight. For example, replying to multiple posts “I agree” or “good point” will not earn high marks. More detailed expectations for discussion board participation will be posted on D2L.
Assignments (3 x 20%)
Written assignments will be in essay format and comprise the following parts: comprehension and critical evaluation of required readings/resources and reflection on relevant discussion board discourse and current events. The first assignment will be on the topics of society and online culture, and allies and active bystanders (due May 14th), the second assignment on personhood, liberty and identity (due May 28th), and the third assignment on the topics of privilege and oppression, social constructs, and misogyny and masculinity (due Jun 11th). You will choose 1 of 2 or 3 framing questions to focus your writing. Questions will be posted to D2L 1 week prior to the assignment deadline, and responses should be approximately 3-5 pages double-spaced with citations as needed (and a reference page).

Final Exam (30%)
The final exam will be posted to D2L on Thursday, June 17th at 8:00am and is due Sunday, June 20th at 11:30pm. The format will be 2 essays (2.5-4 pages double-spaced each). The first essay will be a critical response to 1 of 2 framing questions based on the topics of race and the COVID-19 pandemic. The second essay will be a cumulative personal reflection and evaluation of course material.

More details regarding material covered and study suggestions will be given in advance of the exam.

Letter grades reflect the following standards, as outlined in the UCalgary Academic Calendar:
A: Excellent – superior performance, showing comprehensive understanding of subject matter.
B: Good – clearly above average performance with knowledge of subject matter generally complete.
C: Satisfactory – basic understanding of the subject matter.
D: Minimal pass – marginal performance; generally insufficient preparation for subsequent course in the same subject.
F: Fail – unsatisfactory performance or failure to meet course requirements.

The quality of writing WILL be a component in grading.

Women’s Studies Program Course Policies

Course Content:
Even though this course will be entirely online, classroom policies and standards will apply to all online engagement.

This class respects difference and diversity while welcoming thoughtful, critical debate and discussion. No one person’s right to their beliefs may supersede another person’s right to security and dignity.

When in a classroom dedicated to social justice education, conflict will happen. That is part of a healthy, dynamic, questioning space of learning and discovery. You are encouraged to hold onto your own personal beliefs, but recognize that there will be differences of opinion and experience.
A university classroom holds high standards of research, evidence, and analytical proof. Students need to listen attentively, respectfully, and critically to the evidence provided in class lectures, readings, discussions, and other materials.

Some of the materials and topics in this class may include explicit content (violence; sexuality; profanity; blasphemy; objectionable or illegal conduct). If you feel any materials may cause you distress or severe discomfort, you are encouraged to speak with the professor and/or to take measures to ensure that you feel braver in the classroom. You will not be exempt from any assigned work but we will work together to accommodate your concerns.

If you feel that you need more support than can be provided by the classroom or the instructor, you are encouraged to take advantage of some of these resources:

SU Wellness Centre

If you have a serious concern about the instructor’s conduct, you may speak in full confidence to the Head of the Department of Philosophy (phildept@ucalgary.ca) Please note, Women’s Studies is a program that is administered by the Department of Philosophy.

Student Conduct
Students are expected to keep up to date with all required posted content on D2L including regular engagement and review of all online discussions. Students are responsible for reading all course announcements on D2L and regularly checking their ucalgary email.

Responsibility for fulfilling the requirements for all aspects of the course resides with the student. The instructor will not give out lecture notes, repeat information, nor provide replacement copies of material previously provided.
Plagiarism, defined as using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it, is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Please refer to the following information and make sure you are familiar with the statement on plagiarism provided at the end of the syllabus.
http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-2-1.html

Student-Instructor Communication
Students should, as a first point of contact, email the course instructor. Deadline extensions must be approved by the instructor prior to the assignment deadline.

I will endeavor to respond to emails within a day after receiving the message Monday to Friday. Emails may not be responded to during the weekend. If you email a question that is fully addressed by the syllabus, Student Code of Conduct, or posted on D2L, I may not reply. Therefore, if you don’t receive a response that probably means you can find the answer somewhere yourself. If your question requires an extensive response, I request that you communicate via telephone or video chat.

Braver Space Guidelines
“Braver Space” principles recognize that everyone brings different resiliencies and capacities to a group setting. We must all bring our personal bravery into the classroom space, and be mindful of what that means specifically to us. This does not mean sharing or participating in a way that violates personal boundaries (yours or another person’s), nor cajoling others into participating in ways that are not conducive to their personal bravery. It means being respectful, self-aware, and mindful of the classroom dynamic and your place in it. Some guidelines are provided below.

Do not make assumptions about other people’s identities and life experiences. That includes but is not limited to race, gender, sexuality, physical ability, mental and emotional well-being, spirituality or religiosity, age, citizenship status, and reproductive capabilities.

Recognize that language is a powerful tool in social justice education. It also changes as new issues and greater clarity develop. Therefore, if you need to correct language use, do so respectfully; and if you are corrected, accept that correction respectfully.

Becoming self-aware is a continual process, and everyone is at a different point on their personal journey. Individuals make mistakes. Our assumption in this classroom is that we are all moving forward with our best intentions. If someone says something that may be construed to be problematic, we will raise questions and/or concerns about the language, not about the person.

Make an effort to speak from the position of “I” (not the generalized “you” or “people”) and to clarify any statements you make, using verifiable evidence and experience. Making a sweeping judgment on a class or group of people is not acceptable.

Address people without assuming their gender. Some ways to do this:
- Don’t refer to groups as guys, ladies, women, men, etc. Instead use gender-neutral terms like “folks,” “all,” “everyone,” etc.
- Refer to individuals whose gender has not been disclosed to you in gender-neutral ways such as “the person who said…”

Address people using the gender pronouns they have indicated for themselves. Offer your gender pronouns to others to make it a braver space to talk about gender pronouns. Some gender pronouns include, but are not limited to:
- they/them/their
- she/her/hers
• ze/hir/hirs
• he/him/his
• ey/em/eirs

Similarly, if you are unsure about any aspect of a person’s identity and how they would prefer to be addressed, ask respectfully. This can apply to Indigeneity, race or ethnicity, faith or spirituality, physical or mental ability, or other vectors of their identity. When speaking in more general terms, if you are corrected, accept the correction graciously. If you are questioned about your choice of general or self-identification, provide a succinct and respectful explanation.

Provide discrete and succinct content warnings if you will be talking about topics that may be traumatic for some and the content is not already apparent. Examples of such topics could include abuse, violence, addiction, suicide, mental health, transphobia/homophobia/other forms of discriminatory behaviours. An example of wording could be, “Please note that there will be (x) content in my discussion.”

Respect your own and others’ physical, mental, and emotional boundaries. Please speak up in a respectful way if you are uncomfortable, seek support if you want/need it, and engage in self-care as required, while still maintaining your commitment and focus on the participatory classroom.
