The University of Calgary resides upon the traditional territories of the people of the Treaty 7 region in Southern Alberta, which includes the Blackfoot Confederacy (comprising the Siksika, Piikani, and Kainai First Nations), the Tsuut'ina First Nation, and the Stoney Nakoda (including the Chiniki, Bearspaw, and Wesley First Nations). The City of Calgary is also home to Métis Nation of Alberta, Region III. The University of Calgary is situated on land adjacent to where the Bow River meets the Elbow River, and that the traditional Blackfoot name of this place is "Moh'kins'tsis", which we now call the City of Calgary.

ii' taa'poh'to'p, the Blackfoot name of the University of Calgary's Indigenous Strategy, was bestowed and transferred in ceremony by Kainai Elder, Andy Black Water on June 21, 2017. The name signifies a place to rejuvenate and re-energize while on a journey. Traditionally, these places are recognized as safe, caring, restful - and offer renewed energy for an impending journey. In a traditional naming ceremony, transitioning into the new name is a journey of transformation towards self-actualization.

Course Description

This course introduces students to the field of women's studies, and provides a helpful overview of relevant issues and concerns. We will explore the historical and political origins of women's studies, contemporary issues of social justice and misogyny, and how the field of women's studies connects with academic and activist work. Though there is strong emphasis on issues of gender and sexuality, we will also study issues such as race and disability.

Prerequisites: None.

Course Learning Outcomes

- To understand key principles and practices behind feminist and gender theory and activism;
- To understand major paradigms in gender and sexuality studies, and their political praxis;
- To appreciate the valuable insights that a gender lens brings to everyday issues;
- To become a more critical, self-reflective, and conscious scholar;
- To participate in a vibrant, questioning community of learning that is rooted in respect for diversity and demand for social justice.

Participatory Classroom Philosophy

In our participatory classroom, students will be invited to engage in a number of ways, from dyads to small groups to full class. No student will be placed in a situation that causes them deep discomfort but all students are encouraged to bring their “braver space” intentions.

Required/Recommended Texts (including electronic resources)

All required readings will be posted on the D2L course website.

A schedule of lectures and readings will be posted on D2L during the first week of class.

Course Assessment

The final grade will be determined on the basis of 5 short reading reflections, 2 short (online) quizzes, an in-class midterm exam, a written project, and a take-home final exam. There will not be a Registrar scheduled final exam for this course.

- Active Bystander training (mandatory) on July 15th. The pre-training quiz (online) is due on or before Sunday, July 14th (11:59pm) and is worth 5%. The post-training quiz (online) is due on or before Friday, July 26th (11:59pm) and is worth 10%.
- Five (5) one-page reading reflections during the course of the term handed in at the beginning of the class in which the reading has been assigned. 15% total (3% each).
- In-class midterm exam, Monday, July 29th worth 20%
- Social Media Awareness and Activity project due Wednesday, August 7th at 11:59pm through D2L dropbox worth 25%.
- Take-home final exam (essay format), handed out at the end of class Monday, August 12th, and due Thursday, August 15th at 11:59pm through D2L dropbox worth 25%.

A passing grade on any particular component of the course is NOT essential for passing this course as a whole.

Active Bystander (5% and 10%)

UCalgary Strong (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/currentstudents/ucalgarystrong>) is committed to bringing cutting edge practices in health and wellness to campus. One exciting aspect of this initiative is that many of their strategies are built upon feminist and social justice practices. Active Bystander training is one such practice. This assignment utilizes the university’s own training program with an added element of critical reflection and learning self-assessment.

Students will complete pre-training and post-training online quizzes available through D2L and will be automatically graded by the system. Failure to take either quiz before the posted deadlines (pre-training, July 14th 11:59pm; post-training, July 26th 11:59pm) will result in a grade of 0 – NO exceptions.

Bystander training will be provided in class on Monday, July 15th. Attendance will be taken for this class and students must attend the training in full in order to be cleared to take the post-training test. You must bring your University of Calgary student ID card, or another piece of photo ID of your choice so that your attendance can be verified.

Reading Reflections (5 x 3%)

Reading reflections are short written assignments no more than one and a half pages double-spaced demonstrating comprehension and critical reflection. Five reading reflections must be handed in during the term and it is up to the student to decide on which days they want to submit these assignments. HOWEVER, only one reading reflection may be submitted a class, even if more than one reading has been assigned for that day. More details regarding the format of reading reflections will be given on the first day of class.

In-class Midterm Exam (20%), Take-home Final Exam (25%)

The inclass midterm will be approximately two hours in length and is closed book. NO accommodation for a make up exam will be permitted except in exceptional cases and requires appropriate documentation. Students should make every effort to contact the instructor prior to the start of the exam.

Information on the format of the in-class midterm exam and take-home final exam will be given in lecture a week prior to the test date.

Social Media Awareness and Activism Project (25%)

Students will engage in social media activism for three weeks and submit a final, reflective report. They will catalogue what they have done, and include printed copies (screen shot) of online commentary when they submit their project through D2L dropbox on Wednesday, August 7th (11:59pm). Students will choose to follow two or three groups or individuals online, and engage with those individuals or groups in an ongoing fashion. This could be done by responding to a blog post, commenting on a Facebook post, or share their thoughts in the 'comment' threads of a website. When printing out examples, the original post must be included as well as the day/time of student engagement.

Students may have a good reason to use a pseudonym for their online postings. If this is the case, an explanation must be included in the report.

In order to achieve a passing grade, students must have completed a minimum of two online engagements for each of the three weeks (that is, six comments), and complete a written report answering a number of questions provided by the instructor. Assigned grades depend on providing proof of, and completing, an appropriate amount of online work, as well as providing reflective and insightful responses to questions making connections to relevant themes discussed in class.

Detailed project criteria and required format will be discussed in the first lecture.

Late submissions will only be accepted with appropriate documentation and prior arrangement with the instructor.

Women's Studies Program Course Policies

Course Content:

This class respects difference and diversity while welcoming thoughtful, critical debate and discussion. No one person's right to their beliefs may supersede another person's right to security and dignity.

When in a classroom dedicated to social justice education, conflict will happen. That is part of a healthy, dynamic, questioning space of learning and discovery. You are encouraged to hold onto your own personal beliefs, but recognize that there will be differences of opinion and experience.

A university classroom holds high standards of research, evidence, and analytical proof. Students need to listen attentively, respectfully, and critically to the evidence provided in class lectures, readings, discussions, and other materials.

Some of the materials and topics in this class may include explicit content (violence; sexuality; profanity; blasphemy; objectionable or illegal conduct). If you feel any materials may cause you distress or severe discomfort, you are encouraged to speak with the professor and/or to take measures to ensure that you feel braver in the classroom. You will not be exempt from any assigned work but we will work together to accommodate your concerns.

If you feel that you need more support than can be provided by the classroom or the instructor, you are encouraged to take advantage of some of these resources:

If you have a serious concern about the instructor's conduct, you may speak in full confidence to the Head of the Department of Philosophy (phildept@ucalgary.ca) Please note, Women's Studies is a program that is administered by the Department of Philosophy.

Student Conduct

Students are expected to attend class regularly. They must come prepared and ready to work.

Responsibility for fulfilling the requirements for all aspects of the course resides with the student. The professor will not give out lecture notes, repeat information, nor provide replacement copies of material that was provided during regular class meetings.

Plagiarism, defined as using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it, is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Please refer to the following information and make sure you are familiar with the statement on plagiarism provided at the end of the syllabus.

<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-2-1.html>

Course Technology

Students are welcome to bring portable word processing devices (tablets, laptops, airbooks, Acer, anything you got) to take notes in class. Using your device to go online for any reason – unless the instructor gives you direction to do so for class-related purposes – is prohibited and may result in having your privileges to use your device in class revoked and/or you being removed from the class. See the Student Code of Conduct Agreement for more details.

A D2L portal has been set up for this course that allows for group correspondence, course announcements, class materials, assignment submissions and grading, and other forms of communication. Students are expected to check D2L before class time for any last minute changes or cancellations. D2L only uses @ucalgary email addresses.

Student-Instructor Communication

The instructor will endeavor to respond to emails within three business days after receiving the message. If the student emails a question that is fully addressed by the syllabus, Student Code of Conduct, or posted on D2L, the instructor will not reply. Therefore, if you don't receive a response within three business days that probably means you can find the answer somewhere yourself. The instructor may respond to your email query with the request that you come meet with them in person to discuss. Please note, that the university's regular business hours are 8:30-4:30.

Braver Space Guidelines

"Braver Space" principles recognize that everyone brings different resiliencies and capacities to a group setting. We must all bring our personal bravery into the classroom space, and be mindful of what that means specifically to us. This does not mean sharing or participating in a way that violates personal boundaries (yours or another person's), nor cajoling others into participating in ways that are not conducive to their personal bravery. It means being respectful, self-aware, and mindful of the classroom dynamic and your place in it. Some guidelines are provided below.

Do not make assumptions about other people's identities and life experiences. That includes but is not limited to race, gender, sexuality, physical ability, mental and emotional well-being, spirituality or religiosity, age, citizenship status, and reproductive capabilities.

Recognize that language is a powerful tool in social justice education. It also changes as new issues and greater clarity develop. Therefore, if you need to correct language use, do so respectfully; and if you are corrected, accept that correction respectfully.

Becoming self-aware is a continual process, and everyone is at a different point on their personal journey. Individuals make mistakes. Our assumption in this classroom is that we are all moving forward with our best intentions. If someone says something that may be construed to be problematic, we will raise questions and/or concerns about the language, not about the person.

Make an effort to speak from the position of "I" (not the generalized "you" or "people") and to clarify any statements you make, using verifiable evidence and experience. Making a sweeping judgment on a class or group of people is not acceptable.

Address people without assuming their gender. Some ways to do this:

- Don't refer to groups as guys, ladies, women, men, etc. Instead use gender-neutral terms like "folks," "all," "everyone," etc.

- Refer to individuals whose gender has not been disclosed to you in gender-neutral ways such as “the person who said...”

Address people using the gender pronouns they have indicated for themselves. Offer your gender pronouns to others to make it a braver space to talk about gender pronouns. Some gender pronouns include, but are not limited to:

- they/them/theirs
- she/her/hers
- ze/hir/hirs
- he/him/his
- ey/em/eirs

Similarly, if you are unsure about any aspect of a person’s identity and how they would prefer to be addressed, ask respectfully. This can apply to Indigeneity, race or ethnicity, faith or spirituality, physical or mental ability, or other vectors of their identity. When speaking in more general terms, if you are corrected, accept the correction graciously. If you are questioned about your choice of general or self-identification, provide a succinct and respectful explanation.

Provide discrete and succinct content warnings if you will be talking about topics that may be traumatic for some and the content is not already apparent. Examples of such topics could include abuse, violence, addiction, suicide, mental health, transphobia/homophobia/other forms of discriminatory behaviours. An example of wording could be, “Please note that there will be (x) content in my discussion.”

Respect your own and others’ physical, mental, and emotional boundaries. Please speak up in a respectful way if you are uncomfortable, seek support if you want/need it, and engage in self-care as required, while still maintaining your commitment and focus on the participatory classroom.

IMPORTANT DEPARTMENTAL, FACULTY AND UNIVERSITY INFORMATION

Academic Honesty

Cheating or plagiarism on any assignment or examination is regarded as an extremely serious academic offense, the penalty for which will be an F on the assignment or an F in the course, and possibly a disciplinary sanction such as probation, suspension, or expulsion. See the relevant section K.5 on 'Academic Misconduct' in the current University Calendar <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-5.html>.

Intellectual honesty requires that your work include adequate referencing to sources. Plagiarism occurs when you do not acknowledge or correctly reference your sources. If you have questions about correct referencing, consult your instructor.
